Business Insights

1. Joining data from different tables helped understand how customers, orders, and products are connected, and helping better business decisions.
2. Technology category generates the highest revenue, making it the most valuable product category.
3. A small group of top products contributes a significant portion of total revenue.
4. The East region has higher sales at certain times, showing seasonal trends.